GOVERNMENT INQUIRY ASKED

SEATTLE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE WANTS PRESIDENT TO INVESTIGATE WRECK.

PASSENGERS TESTIFY THAT LIFEBOATS OF ILL FATED VESSEL WERE IMPROPERLY HANDLED.

SEATTLE, Jan. 31.—The Seattle Chamber of Commerce today adopted a resolution calling on President Roosevelt to order a government inquiry into the wreck of the Valencia. The resolution was sent by wire to the presidents.

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 31.—Trying to fix the blame for the drowning of approximately 50 passengers on the ill-fated Valencia when the lifeboats were launched, United States Inspectors Turner and Whitney today examined four witnesses, including two members of the crew. The point of today's questions was to determine whether or not seamanship was shown in the launching of the lifeboats. Boat No. 5 was either dropped into the sea through a mistake in orders or the ropes were rotten. The boat contained forty people. As it hung dangling against the side of the ship, one end gave way and practically all the people in it were spilled into the water. Only three or four, and these were men, kept afloat until the boat was finally launched. That a mistake was made was proved by the witness, who swore that someone on deck, presumably an officer, gave the order to lower away. The order might have been given by an excited passenger, but it was so dark that none of the witnesses could tell positively who gave the order. No one could swear that the ropes were either cut or broken, so that the evidence seemed to show that one end was dropped before the other.

APPEAL QUESTION NOW THE ISSUE

DIVISION IN SENATE OVER THE RAILROAD RATE BILL NOW HANGS ON THIS POINT.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—The division in the senate over the railroad rate bill seems to hang on a question of appeal to the courts from the decision of the Interstate Commerce commission when it fixes a maximum rate. The house bill and the Dolliver-Clapp bill in the senate provide for no appeal, leaving it to the railroad companies to take any case into the courts under the present laws. The opponents of the house and similar bills insist that the right of the railroads to an appeal in every case where the commission fixes a rate must be given. A review of the action of the commission by the courts is the contention and it appears that the rate fight is to be made on these lines.

Senator Elkins, chairman of the committee, has had conferences with Senator Dolliver on this subject, but they have come to no agreement. Senator Dolliver insists that the railroads have the same protection in the courts as other citizens, while Senator Elkins says the right of review by a court of any order of the commission reducing a rate is necessary in order to protect railroad property. The present division probably will develop further when the committee meets next Friday.

FIRE DESTROYS THIRTY BUILDINGS.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Jan. 31. Fire today destroyed about 30 buildings, covering an area of two squares, in the town of St. Albans, on the Chesapeake & Ohio, about 30 miles south of here. Loss, $150,000.

EDWARD MORRIS CROSS-EXAMINED

TREASURER OF FAIRBANKS CANNING COMPANY ON THE STAND IN PACKERS' CASE.

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—No facts of great importance were developed at today's hearing of the packers' case. Edward Morris, treasurer of the Fairbanks Canning company, Ira N. Morris, his brother, secretary of the same corporation, and Edward F. Swift, vice president of Swift & Co., were the only witnesses on the stand.

The direct examination of Edward Morris was almost concluded yesterday, and he was cross-examined today at considerable length by District Attorney Morrison. He was asked if there was anything in the books of his company which might have convicted him of violation of an injunction issued some time previous to the Garfield investigation, by Judge Grosscup of the federal bench of this city, enjoining the packers from combining in restraint of trade, but the court declared that he could not be required to answer the question.

Ira N. Morris and Edward Swift testified that they had been assured by Commissioner Garfield that none of the information he secured from them would be turned over to the department [illegible]

SCHWERIN TESTIFIES

Answers Secretary Taft's Criticism of Pacific Mail Steamship Company.

SETS UP DEFENSE

SAYS IT IS NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR FREIGHT CONGESTION ON ISTHMUS—BLAMES CANAL COMMISSION.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Robert P. Schwerin, general manager of the Pacific Mail Steamship company, was before the senate committee on interoceanic canals today. His attention was called to a statement made by Secretary Taft criticising the service between Panama and San Francisco for its part in contributing to the congestion of freight at Panama. In reply he said:

"Secretary Taft's statement was made either through malice tending to injure an American industry or through the causes of the difficulties of which he has complained." Continuing, he said the Pacific Mail Steamship company operates nine regular steamers on the Pacific coast, which steamers sail on schedules approved by Honduras, Mexico, Nicaragua and other countries whose ports are entered. The schedules provide for connections with the steamers of the Panama Steamship company from New York by means of the railroad across the isthmus. The schedules require the companies to make connections and exchange freight, said Mr. Schwerin.

A description of conditions on the isthmus since the canal commission took charge was given by Mr. Schwerin.

"As soon as control of the railroad passed to the United States," said he, "the conditions began to grow worse. The railroad management for the wages of men working on the docks, which caused a strike, and our labor followed. As a result we are both paying higher wages than we were before for the poorest labor in the world. It became the understanding that the United States had bought the railroad to build the canal and cared nothing for the commercial business across the isthmus. Commercial business was neglected, and it was said by Secretary Taft, Mr. Wallace, Admiral Walker, the former chairman of the commission, and others connected with the building of the canal, that commerce was secondary to the movement of canal matter. It was that indifference that brought about the congestion. It is shown just the same in shipments by steamer from New York. A steamship may be loaded with commercial business and a rush order be received for canal material. The canal material will be given preference, but we would be notified of the shipment of business for western ports and receive papers for the business. The result is that we would receive bills of lading for goods that could not be found and our ships would be delayed for days. We found it impossible to segregate the shipments for particular loadings, all of which was due to the inefficiency of the officers of the Panama railroad."

Mr. Schwerin said that lumber ships from New York were held up so long that there were bills of demurrage amounting to $18,617 between August 1 and November 30, 1905, and the Panama railroad will have these to pay. The Pacific mail steamers were held up for longer periods, and there is no way

LORD ROTHSCHILD TO SEND TWO HUNDRED FAMILIES TO CANADA

LONDON, Jan. 31. A scheme has been perfected under which Lord Rothschild, at his own expense, will send 200 families to Canada. Fifty of these families will leave England February 13. The scheme forms a basis for the solution of the problem regarding the unemployed of Great Britain. The emigrants will be provided with clothes and food, the cost of their passage, situations on their arrival and sums of money to guard against emergencies. The total cost for each family is placed at $50, which must be repaid in installments. It is expected that when the allotted fund shall have been repaid, 200 additional families will be sent to Canada on the same basis.

CHINESE ENVOYS GO TO NEW YORK

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—The members of the Chinese imperial commission spent their last day in the capital by saying farewell to the different authorities who have entertained them and by visiting the senate and house of representatives after an inspection of the congressional library. At the state department they said good-by to Secretary Root and the assistant secretaries of state. At the library, Librarian Putnam conducted them through the reading rooms and entertained them at luncheon. At the capitol they witnessed some of the proceedings of both houses. They left tonight for New York.

MISS ROOSEVELT RETURNS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—Miss Roosevelt and party returned from New York this evening.

HEROISM IS REWARDED

CAPTAIN AND CREW OF FISHING SCHOONER ALBERTA SHARE CARNEGIE FUND.

RESCUED EIGHTY-TWO PEOPLE FROM CLYDE LINER CHEROKEE ON JANUARY 14.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 31.—Captain Mark Casto of the fishing schooner Alberta and his crew of six men who on January 14 in a fierce gale rescued the crew of 42 and 10 passengers from the Clyde liner Cherokee which ran aground on Brigantine shoals near Atlantic City, N. J., while on the way from San Domingo to New York, were today made beneficiaries of the Carnegie hero fund for their heroism. Besides medals to the captain and crew a sum aggregating $9,500 is awarded. This is the quickest action taken by the Carnegie Hero Fund commission since its inception. Captain Casto, besides receiving a gold medal, is awarded $1,500 toward liquidating the mortgage on his property. Five thousand dollars is to be set aside as a special fund for the education of Mark Jacob Casto, the 9-year-old son of Captain Casto.

Each member of the crew, besides receiving a silver medal, is awarded $500, sum sum to be placed to the credit of each, as a savings fund, in trust.

A further resolution was passed expressing the high appreciation of the bravery and devotion to duty shown in connection with the wreck of the Cherokee on January 12, 13 and 14, 1906, by the members of the United States life saving crews of North and South Brigantine stations.

JAPAN CAUSES A SENSATION

GREAT BRITAIN TAKES OFFENSE THAT TROUBLE SHOULD SUGGEST ARMY REFORMS.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—The cablegram from Tokio announcing that the leader of the Progressist party of Japan interpellated the minister of war as to whether the Japanese government, in view of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, intended to urge upon the British government the reform of its army organization, to which the minister replied that his government would do so at some future date, is likely to cause a sensation throughout Great Britain. For the moment most of the papers refrain from comment, under the idea that a wrong impression might have been conveyed through a close telegraphic summary or by a telegraphic error.

The Daily Mail says it is reluctant to believe that the common rules of international courtesy have been intentionally disregarded. It expressed the belief that the statement of General Terauchi will result in diplomatic correspondence.

The Daily News, in an editorial, says that "it is not an agreeable pill for a proud people to swallow," and points with dramatic emphasis to the extraordinary story of the last 20 years since the Gilbert and Sullivan opera of "The Mikado" represented "our notions of Japan." The paper adds that "if this miracle happened in 20 years what may not happen in 50 years?"

JAPANS KOREAN POLICY OUTLINED

EDUCATIONAL ADVANTAGES TO BE IMPROVED—IMPORTANT INTERNAL REFORMS PLANNED.

TOKIO, Jan. 31.—Marquis Ito, the Japanese resident general in Korea, invited the newspaper men to his official residence yesterday evening and outlined the policy of Japan in Korea, which includes the entire national defense of the country by Japan. Every step involving internal reforms and matters of diplomacy between the two countries will be taken into careful consideration by the Japanese emperor and his ministers and every possible effort will be made looking to the agricultural, mining and forestry developments of Korea. The education of Korean youths will receive the fullest attention. This is regarded as a most important question because it is believed that education will establish the relations between the two countries on a more friendly and firmer basis.

POLITICAL ACTIVITY

Pre-election Excitement in Russia Has Reached an Acute Stage.

MANY CANDIDATES

MOSCOW THE MAIN CENTER OF THE MOVEMENT—FATHER GAPON LEADS LABOR ORGANIZATION.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 31.—The pre-election activity has reached an acute stage, although the date for the holding of elections is unknown. Candidates of various parties are daily coming into the open and all factions in public life are taking an active interest in the election. The only effective boycott of the preparations seems to be due to the apathy of the commercial classes and other conservative and unprogressive elements. Most eligible members of the Social Democrats, the League of Leagues and other extremist organizations, in spite of their fulminations against the national assembly, are registering as individuals and intend to exercise the franchise. The main center of political activity at present is Moscow, where the six moderate organizations have established a political club and are planning to publish a paper under the editorship of Prince Eugene Troubetskoi.

The defections in the ranks of the constitutional Democrats are now assuming the character of an open split, with female suffrage and the autonomy of Poland as the two principal points of difference. Among the candidates at Moscow are Prince Galitzin, M. Guchkoff and Dmitri Shipoff, representatives of the moderate faction. This faction condemns the putting forward of M. Golovin and Kokoshine, Prof. Menromtseff and M. Krushevan, editor of the notorious Jew baiting Drour (Friend), and also the announced candidacy of Father Gapon, who has returned to St. Petersburg to push his plans for a moderate labor organization which contemplates the establishment of a newspaper.

The project for giving Russia a "constitution" by making alterations in the fundamental laws of the empire so as to harmonize them with the imperial manifesto of October 30, will be taken up for consideration tomorrow by the Solsky commission, which includes, besides the cabinet ministers, other leaders of the government and men prominent in public life.

The censorship is now being relaxed in the case of press dispatches from Vladivostok, but the telegrams received are of no later date than January 28, and cover only the development of the mutiny. The telegraph strike, which cut off Vladivostok from direct communication with Russia since the end of November, was of great service to the revolutionists, as it allowed the circulation of the most sensational rumors and accounts of events here for over a month before the collision was precipitated. On January 22 the garrison at Vladivostok was practically in a state of open mutiny. The few loyal Cossacks were intimidated and even attacked. Revolutionary organizations were formed and meetings were held in the barracks, on board ships and in the forts, in open defiance of the repeated prohibitions of General Selivanoff, the commander of the troops. The encounter of Janury 23 was precipitated by the arrests of the leaders of the movement by General Selivanoff.

A FEDERAL CHARTER FOR BIG WATERWAY VIEWED WITH FAVOR

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—The house subcommittee of the committee on railways and canals today decided to report favorably a bill granting a federal charter for the construction of a canal between Pittsburg and Lake Erie, the lake entrance to the canal to be at Ashtabula, O. The bill contemplates a canal 100 miles long and 12 feet deep, with a capitalization of $60,000,000. The waterway as is contemplated by the bill is to furnish cheap transportation for iron ore from lake regions to the steel works of Pittsburg with a new type of boat which can be operated both on the lakes and in the canals. Fifteen years is to be allowed for the canal's construction, though the estimate of time actually necessary is seven years.

The subcommittee has not fully contemplated the terms of the bill.

A DARING POLITICAL CRIME COMMITTED

POLTAVA, Russia, Jan. 31.—A daring political crime was committed here today at the entrance to the administration building when Provincial Councilor Filonoff was fired at five times and killed by an unknown assassin. Filonoff was held responsible by the terrorists for the ruthless severity with which the agrarian disorders in the province had been suppressed.

CHOICE OF SENATORS BY DIRECT VOTE OF PEOPLE

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 31.—The house today adopted the senate joint resolution urging congress to submit a constitutional amendment providing for the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people.

FORESTRY IS DISCUSSED

CONVENTION OF STATE ASSOCIATION MEETS IN DENVER. PROMINENT MEN ATTEND.

SPEAKERS FULL OF EFFORTS OF UNCLE SAM TO SAVE THE TREES IN COLORADO.

DENVER, Jan. 31.—At the Chamber of Commerce tonight the state Forestry association held its annual convention, which was enlivened by the three addresses. Gifford Pinchot, chief of the government forest bureau, was scheduled for a speech, but owing to a confusion of dates he was unable to keep the appointment, although he was in attendance for a brief period. W. G. M. Stone presided and introduced F. W. Besley of the government extension service.

"What the Government Is Doing for Forestry in Colorado," was the subject of the talk, and the speaker told of the efforts of Uncle Sam to save the trees of this state from being destroyed. He said three nurseries had been established on the Pike's Peak reserve, where many thousands of young trees are grown and then transplanted on the mountain sides to assist in building up the depleted forests.

"What the State Agricultural Experiment Station is Doing in Forestry," was the topic of an interesting discourse by Professor B. O. Longyear of the State Agricultural college. The speaker said that the station is rapidly developing a forest of every available kind of trees for the purpose of providing study for the college students and as experiments toward ascertaining just what trees best serve the conditions in this state.

Enos Mills of Estes Park, Colo., detailed what he had been doing for forestry. The convention adjourned until March 29.

CORBIN GIVES WOOD CHARGE

RELINQUISHES COMMAND OF STAFF DIVISION OF PHILIPPINES AND SAILS FOR HONGKONG.

MANILA, Feb. 1.—Major General Corbin today relinquished command of the military division of the Philippines to Major General Wood and sailed for Hongkong, accompanied by his personal staff.

The transfer of command was made with impressive ceremony at Fort Santiago. Army and navy officers, clergy and business men and others from civil life were present. For the first time in the change of commanders there was no parade of troops.

In giving over the command to General Wood, General Corbin said:

"It has been my aim to make the army here an honor to the country and a credit to the military service. Coming here I placed myself in touch with Governor General Wright and he met me in the same spirit in which I approached him. As a result, there has been a total disappearance of the last vestige of friction and jealousy between the military and civil government."

Major General Wood and General Ide made brief speeches, expressing the universal regret over General Corbin's departure. All classes of business men declare that General Corbin has done more to aid commerce than any previous commander. There was a popular demonstration when General Corbin embarked.

ANOTHER TRAGIC CHAPTER IN FEUD

SYRIANS ENGAGE IN GUN FIGHT IN NEW YORK RESTAURANT. ONE KILLED AND TWO WOUNDED.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—One man was killed and two others were probably mortally wounded tonight in the Syrian quarter of New York city, marking another tragic chapter in the feud which has been raging between the adherents of different religious faiths among the Syrians here. The man killed, John Stefan, was a brother of Archbishop Stefan, the Syrian Roman Catholic prelate. Stefan was shot to death in a Syrian restaurant where he was dining with a party of friends. Two cousins, residents of Brooklyn, entered the place, drew revolvers and began to fire. Stefan fell dead after the first volley. Another of the diners, Raphael Sholisho, was shot in the back and mortally wounded.

In the melee that followed the shooting, George Zarik, the police say, accidentally sent a bullet into his cousin's chest, the ball lodging over the heart. He is in a critical condition.

DENVER TO HAVE FARMERS' WEEK

MAYOR IS UPHELD

Has Right to Vote as Member of City Council Is Decision of District Court.

HOLDEN LOSES SUIT

WAS WRONG IN REFUSING THE MAYOR RIGHT TO VOTE ON GRANTING OF LIQUOR LICENSES.

Judge L. W. Cunningham in the district court yesterday sustained the contention of Mayor Henry C. Hall and City Attorney Robinson by deciding that the mayor is a member of the city council and has the right to vote in cases of a tie except where the statute specifically prohibits him from voting. The demurrer of the respondent was sustained and the petition dismissed at the cost of the petitioner.

The mandamus proceedings, entitled the people ex rel A. M. Holden et al. vs. Henry C. Hall as mayor, were called up yesterday before Judge Cunningham upon arguments on the respondent's demurrer to the petition. City Attorney Robinson opened the argument for the respondent, it being the intention that Attorney A. T. Gunnell should make the closing argument for the respondent. He was followed by Attorneys Ira Harris and S. H. Kinsley for the petitioners. At the conclusion of Mr. Kinsley's argument the court said that further discussion was unnecessary, as the demurrer would be sustained and the petitioners would be given ten days to file exceptions.

The case is the outcome of a dispute that arose during a session of the city council on October 17, 1905, when the matter of granting liquor licenses to druggists came up for vote by the council. The eight aldermen were tied in the vote, four being in favor of granting the licenses and four against. The mayor demanded to exercise his right to cast a vote, which was refused by President A. M. Holden. The mayor then appealed from the decision of the chair and again the vote was a tie. The council asked for an opinion from the city attorney and was informed that the mayor had the right to vote in cases of a tie upon all matters except the passage of an ordinance or the expenditure of money, and that the mayor had no vote upon those matters for the reason that the law gave the mayor the right to veto such measures.

Mayor Henry C. Hall, in discussing the decision handed down by Judge L. W. Cunningham, said: "The decision of the district court makes it possible to break a deadlock that might interfere very seriously with the city's business. The Colorado supreme court has held, in several instances, that the mayor is a member of the city council, but the question of the mayor's right to vote in cases of a tie, where the question involved is not the passage of an ordinance or the expenditure of money, has never before been threshed out in the courts since the passage of the act of 1901. The act of 1891 made the mayor the presiding officer of the council, and gave him the right to vote. The act of 1901 gave the council the right to elect its presiding officer from among the aldermen. The city attorney, in his opinion to the council, recognized the mayor's right to vote in case of a tie, except upon the passage of an ordinance or the expenditure of money, for in those instances the statute specifically gives the mayor the right to veto."

MINE WORKERS AND OPERATORS DISAGREE; STRIKE IS PROBABLE

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 31.—Today brought a deadlock between the coal operators and miners of both the central competitive and southwestern districts. John Mitchell, president of the miners, delivered his ultimatum to the joint scale committee of the central district, declaring that there must be an increase in wages or there will be no agreement. F. L. Robbins of Pittsburg, speaking for the operators, declared that the operators stood positively and determinedly against any advance whatever. The delegates of the southwest district united with the operators of the central district in caucus and both agreed to stand by the positions taken by Mr. Robbins.

SUITS ARE ALSO BEING BROUGHT AGAINST SEVERAL OTHERS [illegible]

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—President Paul Morton of the Equitable Life Assurance society, announced today that suit has been started against James H. Hyde for the recovery of approximately $72,000, representing Mr. Hyde's profits in syndicates which sold securities to the society.

Mr. Morton also announced that suits were in preparation against various men who had profited by leases of the spaces in buildings owned by the Equitable to the so-called subsidiary companies, and that these and other claims of the society growing out of the acts of the old Equitable administration were being pushed as rapidly as possible.

At a meeting of the Equitable directors today several of the counsel employed in the factional troubles in the society last year and before the reorganization, presented their bills. Objections were made that resulted in the appointment of a special committee to consider whether the legal charges were excessive and whether in certain instances the society ought in any event to be liable for their payment.

L. P. SCHAUS ACQUITTED.

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 31.—Lewis P. Schaus, grand master of the Ohio Masonic lodge, was acquitted here today of the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. The action here today grew out of the failure of the Newark Savings bank, of which he was president.

FORTUNE WAS SMALL BECAUSE HE GAVE GENEROUSLY TO DESERVING POOR.

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 31.—The body of King Christian was today placed in a plain casket, lined with eiderdown and covered with black silk. It lies tonight in the apartment of the palace known as the "garden room," to which it was removed after a memorial service this afternoon. Only the court physicians were present when the body was removed from the bed to the casket following the service, at which most of the members of the royal family were present.

Great banks of flowers and wreaths line the hall, which is guarded by the king's adjutants. No official announcement regarding the date of the funeral has yet been given out.

It is stated that King Christian left only a small fortune, amounting probably to less than $250,000. The King was exceedingly charitable and gave large sums of money for the relief of the poor and to deserving institutions.

King Frederick has issued a decree of amnesty releasing many offenders.

ROOT FAVORS PROPOSED SANTO DOMINGO TREATY

RAILROAD RATE BILL IS DEBATED

CONGRESSMEN CAMPBELL AND MARTIN TAKE WIDELY DIVERGENT STANDS ON SUBJECT.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Discussion of the railroad rate bill continued in the house today. Incident to it, two speeches, the efforts of Mr. Campbell of Kansas, and Mr. Martin of South Dakota, took a wider range and swept the horizon of "trust evils" generally.

Mr. Bartlett of Georgia, a minority member of the committee reporting the bill, made a two-hours speech in which he discussed the legal and constitutional questions involved and advocated the passage of the bill as a proper remedy for an intolerable condition. The first speech in opposition to the bill, which concluded the day's discussion, was made by Mr. Perkins of New York. He based his opposition to government control of rates on an inherent aversion to government control of business enterprises. PATTERSON COMMENDS ROOSEVELT

ADDRESSES SENATE ON THE PRESIDENT'S SANTO DOMINGO POLICY.

SAYS A DEMOCRATIC CHIEF EXECUTIVE [illegible] AGAINST [illegible].

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—In the senate today Mr. Patterson strongly indorsed the position of the president in Santo Domingo and in the matter of the Morocco conference. He said that he was sorry to differ from his Democratic colleagues, but that he felt it his duty to do so in these matters. He also expressed absolute confidence in the patriotism of the president and in his good faith in announcing his determination not again to be a candidate for the presidency.

Speaking of the Dominican question,

he said that it involved the Monroe doctrine and that there was no occasion for division on party lines on that question. He said that he confessed to a very friendly feeling towards the president, due to the record he had made as a statesman and citizen and as the first magistrate of the republic. Much, however, as he liked the president, he felt impelled to differ with him on many questions. Regardless, however, of these differences, he believed the president to be honest and patriotic in all things. Not only had the president done much to annihilate sectional prejudices, but he had done many things to commend him to Democrats. "I doubt," he said, impressively, "whether if the Democratic party had succeeding in electing its candidate in 1904, we would find him striving as earnestly, as zealously and as fearlessly in sustaining the rights of all the people against those who unite to oppress the masses, as is the present chief executive." He also commended the president for initiating the merger suits and for his position in support of railroad legislation, which, he said, is "giving life to a Democratic principle."

"For three or four years," he added, "the president had been carrying on a struggle with the money power, the like of which had not been known since the days of Andrew Jackson."

He believed the west to be behind the president in his stand, and he added the opinion that if the real sentiments of the people of the south could be ascertained, they all would be found also to be favorable to the president.

The senator said that he could not accept the contention that the president has usurped any prerogative in carrying into effect the present arrangements in San Domingo. He did not believe that he is trying to carry into effect a treaty which had not been ratified but that it is merely an arrangement to retain the funds of the island so that they will be attainable in case of ratification.

"The senate can soon settle it," he said.

"Bring the treaty before the senate. If it is rejected and the arrangement is continued, then the president will be open to criticism. But if it is ratified we shall find the arrangement a very desirable one."

Mr. Patterson said that he had hesitated to take a position in these matters antagonistic to many of his Democratic colleagues, but believing as he did, he could not pursue any other course and remain true to himself and the country.

He closed with an expression of his opinion that the president meant to carry out his pledge not to be a candidate for a third term. When he concluded Mr. Gallinger made an effort to secure time for a vote on the shipping bill, but objection was made. A general discussion of the measure then followed.

MRS. YERKES WEDS AGAIN

WIDOW OF LATE MILLIONAIRE IS MARRIED TO WILSON MIZNER OF SAN FRANCISCO.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Several New York newspapers announce today the marriage of Mrs. Charles T. Yerkes, widow of the traction capitalist, to Wilson Mizner of San Francisco.

No confirmation of the marriage announcement was obtainable from Mrs. Yerkes nor Mr. Mizner, but when Mr. Mizner was asked if he would deny that the marriage had taken place, he replied that he would not. He added that he had no statement to make on the subject. The witnesses to the ceremony are reported to have been J. L. Eastland and Emil Brugere of San Francisco.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Andrew Gillies of 120 West 76th street. Mr. Gillies is pastor of St. Andrews Methodist Episcopal church.

Rev. Mr. Gillies said tonight:

"I was called upon at my home yesterday afternoon by a man who said he was Wilson Mizner. He came to me like a man and said he was about to be married. He asked me to be in Mrs. Yerkes' home last night at 7:30 to perform the ceremony, and I promised to be there. Why he came to me I do not know, and I did not ask him. It was enough for me that there was no objection to their being married. I went to Mrs. Yerkes' home as requested and about 8 o'clock Mr. Mizner and his friends arrived. Mrs. Goodsell was already there. The only witnesses of the ceremony were Mr. Brugere, Mr. Eastland and Mrs. Goodsell.

"As to the filing of the certificate of the marriage, I shall certainly attend to that within the 10 days prescribed by law and in view of the publicity of the affair I shall try and see that the certificate is filed tomorrow or next day."

Mrs. Yerkes tonight would not admit that the marriage had taken place, even after a representative of Mr. Mizner had made known the name of the clergyman and the latter had confirmed the marriage Mrs. Yerkes said:

"The story is ridiculous. I do not know how it originated. If I intended to get married I should announce it to my friends, although I should not consider it a matter in which the public is interested. I shall devote myself to planning and building the hospital for which my husband made provision in his will and I expect my interests in the hospital and in the convalescents home which I shall found will occupy me for the remainder of my days."

Mrs. Yerkes, when seen for the second time, just before midnight, practically reiterated what she had said earlier. When told of the statement of Dr. Gillies she exclaimed: "Ridiculous. I don't believe he said such a thing. Even if I did marry Mizner it would be nobody's business but my own, but I am still Mrs. Yerkes."

ANTI-CIGARETTE BILL IS PASSED

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 31.—The McFadden anti-cigarette bill, prohibiting the purchase, sale or manufacture of cigarettes in Ohio, was passed by the house of representatives by a vote of 78 to 33.

In its original form, the measure made the smoking of cigarettes a crime, but this section was stricken out. Representative Atkin, of Logan county, offered an amendment to strike out the word "using," making the prohibition extend only to selling, buying and manufacturing.

Representative Paxton, of Cincinnati, who smokes cigarettes, moved to lay the bill on the table, but his motion was rejected. By viva voce vote the amendment was adopted.

An amendment presented by Representative Foster to strike out the section giving the informant one-half the fine in any conviction under the law, was adopted.

Mr. Chamberlain offered an amendment to exclude persons more than 21 years old from the provisions of the act, and followed it with a speech on personal liberty, but the amendment was killed, 71 to 38.

The bill is practically assured of becoming a law, as a majority of the senators favor it and Governor Pattison is one of its strongest champions.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL

Few People Know How Useful It Is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines, and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking, or eating onions and other odorous vegetables.

Taken a few tablets daily improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form, or rather in the form of large, pleasant-tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but, on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician in speaking of the benefits of charcoal says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat. I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

WEAK KIDNEYS MAKE WEAK BODIES.

Kidney Diseases Cause Half the Common Aches and Ills of Colorado Springs People.

As one weak link weakens a chain, so weak kidneys weaken the whole body and hasten the final breaking-down.

Overwork, strains, colds and other causes injure the kidneys, and when their activity is lessened the whole body suffers from the excess of uric poison circulated in the blood.

Aches and pains and languor and urinary ills come, and there is the ever-increasing tendency towards diabetes and fatal Bright's disease. There is no real help for the sufferer except kidney help.

Doan's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys and cure every kidney ill. Colorado Springs cures are the proof.

HADLEY IS NOT DISCOURAGED

THINKS ROGERS MAY YET HAVE TO ANSWER QUESTIONS.

[illegible] YOUNG JUSTICE WILL LAY DOWN FACTS.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 31.—Regarding the decision handed down today in New York by Justice Gildersleeve in the supreme court that Henry H. Rogers shall not be compelled to answer questions which he recently refused to answer in reference to the Standard Oil company, Attorney General Hadley tonight made the following statement:

"From a telegram received from Henry Wollman of New York, I am advised that Judge Gildersleeve's decision is to the effect that he will not compel Mr. Rogers to answer questions asked him, pending the decision of the supreme court of Missouri concerning the questions certified to it by Judge Anthony. This case was referred by the supreme court of the state of Missouri to Judge Anthony and he has decided that similar questions to those asked Mr. Rogers were material and Judge Gildersleeve at the conclusion of the arguments before him, also decided that the questions asked Mr. Rogers were proper and material, and his decision today indicates that he is still of the same opinion. If the supreme court of the state of Missouri decides that this question has not been certified to by Judge Anthony or if it decides the position taken by Judge Anthony and Judge Gildersleeve in regard to the materiality of the questions is correct, then under the decision of Judge Gildersleeve it will be necessary for Mr. Rogers to answer the questions asked him."

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—A decision that Henry H. Rogers, president of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, shall not be compelled to answer questions which he recently refused to answer in the taking of testimony here in the case of the state of Missouri against the Standard Oil company of Indiana, and other oil companies, was handed down today by Justice Gildersleeve, in the supreme court.

In his decision, Justice Gildersleeve said:

"The principal questions to which the witness refuses to answer, relate to the ownership of the stock of the respondent corporations. Due regard for the court of original jurisdiction demands that this court should await the decision of the supreme court of Missouri and not at this time consider the propriety of compelling the witness, Rogers, to answer any question relating to stock ownership in the respondent companies."

this company can enforce demurrage charges. He charged that the railroad company had further delayed the Pacific Mail ships by failure to furnish them with coal, as they are required to do under contract, and that when complaint was made to Superintendent Hoad of the railroad he said the fault lay with higher officials. Mr. Schwerin said he had resorted to every means to bring about improved conditions, even protesting to the state department. Mr. Schwerin complained also that the Panama railroad had arbitrarily reduced rates from New York to ports on the Pacific coast where the haul was divided between the Panama Steamship company and the Pacific Mail. It was denied by Mr. Schwerin that his company had had a monopoly on the Pacific coast business and he declared that there had been no monopoly in the business between San Francisco and Panama.

He complained of the criticisms of the company made by Secretary Taft and said as a result the company had been put up to ridicule. He asserted that the statement of Mr. Stevens that the freight congestions were the fault of the Pacific Mail company showed that Mr. Stevens was a railroad man and confused methods of steamship companies with railroad companies, whereas they were totally different.

Senator Knox asked Mr. Schwerin if he had not smarted a little under the criticism of Secretary Taft, and if that feeling had not cropped out in his testimony. Mr. Schwerin replied he had thought it too bad to be held up to ridicule and disgrace by a high official of the United States when every effort had been made to uphold the American flag in a business that had almost been driven off the seas.

He denied to Senator Morgan that the Pacific Mail has any connection with a transcontinental railroad, and declared that Secretary Taft's statement that his company had put small steamers in the isthmian trade in order to divert the better steamers to the coffee trade was "absolutely false."

He added: "It may be that they are not making the dirt fly there as rapidly as they want, but I am not going to let them make the fur of the Pacific Mail fly without giving to the public an understanding of the way business is being done."

Mr. Schwerin made the statement that the Tehuantepec railroad across Central America will be completed by June 1, and declared that will kill the American commerce which now crosses the isthmus.

He said that it would put the Panama railroad and the Pacific Mail company's Panama line out of business, as by the new line there would be a reduction in the time from San Francisco to New York from 34 to 26 days.

ROOSEVELT CONDEMNED

WOOL GROWERS DISFAVOR TAXING STOCKMEN FOR GRAZING ON RESERVES.

PRELIMINARY STEPS TAKEN FOR MAKING ASSOCIATION NATIONAL IN SCOPE.

DENVER, Jan. 31.—Resolutions condemning President Roosevelt's policy of taxing stockmen for grazing on forest reserves were adopted today by the executive committee of the National Wool Growers association and a committee was appointed to go to Washington to oppose this measure and advocate railroad rate legislation.

The first step toward making the Wool Growers association national in scope and membership as well as in name was taken by the executive committee, which reduced the fee for membership from $10 to $5 a year. Plan for establishing a chief office of the wool growers at Cheyenne were adopted and a committee was appointed to rearrange the basis of representation and voting at the national convention. George S. Walker, the new secretary of the association, has begun his campaign to secure every sheepman in the United States as an active member. He was elected for the position on his record as secretary of Wyoming Wool Growers association, the membership of which he increased from 40 to 270 in nine months. Walker is planning an active campaign in the southwest and south.

At the next annual meeting of the National Wool Growers he hopes to have every state and territory in the United States well represented.

A committee was appointed to work in conjunction with a like committee from the American National Live Stock association in securing an amendment to the 28-hour shipping law extending the limit of time stock shall remain in cars to 36 hours. The committees consist of A. J. Knollin of Chicago; Sol. Luna, New Mexico; Fred Gooding, Idaho; George W. McKerrow, Wisconsin, and H. S. Abbott, Colorado.

Dr. Wilson, western vice president, and Secretary George S. Walker were instructed to visit the live stock exchanges at Omaha, Sioux City, Kansas City, St. Joseph and Chicago and protest against an increase in commission charges. Denver was selected as the next meeting place of the national organization, the date to be two days in advance of the meeting the American Live Stock association. Dr. Wilson's remarks to the effect that there was no fight on against the amalgamated association and that all was harmony in the relation between that organization and the Wool Growers were heartily indorsed, Dr. Wilson said:

"No man can accomplish more for the general good of the stock industry than Murdo MacKenzie, the president of the American Live Stock association. We have the utmost confidence in his ability, honesty and integrity. Hundreds of our members are joining the new organization, including members of our executive committee, and we advise all who can to affiliate with that body."

The following telegram from Senator Warren, president of the Wool Growers, was read:

"I regret that I am unable to attend the important meetings of western stock men which are being held this week in Denver. Pressure of important duties makes it impossible to leave here. I trust that the National Wool Growers association, while aiding in the work of general live stock organization, will maintain its individuality and thus be enabled to continue its efficient work for the distinctive branch of the live stock industry it represents. In administrative matters and in its dealing with the administrative branches of the government, the sheep and wool business will be best aided by conservative declarations and action and I earnestly advise that moderation mark the tone of any resolutions which may be adopted, no matter how earnest the declaration."

TERRIBLE ITCHING SCALP HUMOR

Badly Affected With Sores and Crusts—Extended Down Behind the Ears—Some Years Later Painful and Itching Pustules Broke Out on Lower Part of Body—Son Also Affected.

A TRIPLE CURE BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"About ten years ago my scalp became badly affected with sore and itching humors, crusts, etc., and extending down behind the ears. My hair came out in places also. I was greatly troubled; understood it was eczema. Tried various remedies, so called, without effect. Saw your Cuticura advertisement, and got them at once. Applied them as to directions, etc., and after two weeks, I think, of use, was cured as a whistle.

"I have to state also that late in fall, October and November, 1904, I was suddenly affected with a bad eruption, painful and itching pustules over the lower part of the body. I suffered dreadfully. In two months, under the skilful treatment of my doctor, combined with Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, I found myself cured.

"Six years ago my son was laid up with a severe cold, a hard cough, and finally painful eruption all over the body. I procured the Cuticura Remedies as soon as possible, and after his faithful use of them was as well as ever in two weeks, as well as I can recall. He has never had a return of the illness, as far as I know.

"I have always been pleased to commend the Cuticura Remedies, and testify as to their efficacy. I am a veteran of the late Civil War, '61–'65, between seventy and eighty years of age. Yours truly, H. M. F. W., Richmond, Christian Co., Ill., Aug. 31, 1905."

STATE BEE KEEPERS CONVENTION CLOSES

DENVER, Jan. 31.—The State Bee Keepers association closed its annual convention today by electing the following officers: President, W. F. Collins, Boulder; vice president, Frank Rauchfuss, Denver; secretary, C. Tomlin, Fort Collins; treasurer, Mrs. R. A. Rhoades, Platteville.

Professor Fred C. Alford in an address recommended sulphuric acid as one of the best purifying agents to use in extracting honey from the combs. Other interesting addresses were made.

ARMENIANS AND TARTARS FIGHTING

ELIZABETHPOL, Jan. 31.—A race war has again broken out in the region between Elizabethpol and Shusha, where the Armenians and Tartars are massacring each other. These horrors are added to by the fact that the population of the region is starving and that typhoid fever is raging. It is impossible to send food or medical assistance.

SHOOTS WIFE AND COMMITS SUICIDE

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 31.—In the midst of a throng of pedestrians at Market and Kearney streets tonight William Walbridge shot and dangerously wounded his wife, Belle, shot two bystanders and killed himself. Jealousy prompted his acts. He had been separated from his wife and came into possession of letters sent to her signed "George." The letters were written on paper of the Hanford (Cal.) Sentinel. One bullet struck William Part in the mouth, shattered a tooth, and lodged in the jaw. The other bystander was shot in the ankle. Walbridge was about 40 years old and apparently a laborer.

Mrs. Walbridge died soon after being taken to a hospital.

BUFFALO WANTS CHIEF OF POLICE

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Mayor J. N. Adam, of Buffalo, sent today to the Associated Press an announcement that he desired to hear of the "ablest United States army or navy officer qualified for superintendent for police of Buffalo and available for the position."

"Fitness, not politics," the mayor telegraphed, "is the essential qualification." He added:

"No officer need be disappointed if he is rejected; no officer need be surprised if he is chosen. The mayor has several officers in mind and is looking up their records, in addition to looking for other possible appointees. All applications will be carefully considered and treated as confidential, if so desired."

LOCKHART'S ESTATE WAS UNDERVALUED

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 31.—The managers of the estate of the late Charles Lockhart have filed with the board of tax revision of Allegheny county a statement of the taxable personal property in Allegheny county. It amounts to $10,000,000. The board has declined to accept this figure and has asked a recount, the ground being taken that the personal property here was worth at least $50,000,000. The board claims to have figures showing the entire estate of Lockhart was worth not less than $180,000,000 and that he was probably the richest man in the country.

DESCENDANT OF DUNCAN MACDUFF

Lineal descendant of Duncan Macduff, referred to in "Macbeth," Henry Clay McDuffee, of Bradford, Vt., boasts that he and his father voted in every presidential election held in the United States. During twenty-nine national elections the McDuffee family, represented by father and then by son, has an unbroken record of voting. John McDuffee, the father, was born in Londonderry, N. H., June 16, 1776. Records show that Henry Clay McDuffee is a direct descendant of King Kenneth Macduff of Scotland, and Duncan Macduff in 1000 A. D. The name of McDuffee was taken by the family after one branch of the family went from Argyleshire, Scotland, to Londonderry, Ireland, in 17[illegible]

FIELD'S ILLINOIS PROPERTY WORTH ABOUT $75,000,000

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—The petition of the executors of the estate of the late Marshall Field asking that his will be admitted to probate, was filed today with the clerk of the probate court.

In the petition, the executors declared that they are unable at the present time to state the full amount of the property owned in Illinois by Mr. Field, but they feel warranted in showing that the personal estate is worth about $50,000,000 and the real estate about $25,000,000. The executors declare that they are willing to accept and undertake the trust and ask that the hearing of the petition be set for February 21 or as soon thereafter as the petition can be heard.

Besides the amount given by the executors as the value of the estate in Illinois, Mr. Field was a large holder of property in New York, and the corporation of Marshall Field & Co. has many factories and branch houses in Europe and Asia, the value of which is not estimated by the executors in giving the value of the estate to the court.

CHINESE ARTILLERY.

A special correspondent of the London Times, who saw the maneuvers of the new Chinese army a month or two ago, writes of the artillery: "It is safe to assert that better fire discipline could hardly be conceived. The bringing up and handling of ammunition, the drill, and the control of the officers were all that could be desired. The men showed great intelligence, and their understanding of their work was indubitable. In so far as maneuvers are capable of demonstrating fitness for war in reality, it is undeniable that the personnel of the artillery branch of the new Chinese army is highly efficient."

MAN WHO BEAT BALFOUR.

"The man who beat Balfour," as he will be known, was a plain lawyer named Horridge what an English edge to that name—who was a stranger in Manchester. The Liberals did not think, when he was sent down there, that he could possibly win. But Horridge immediately proclaimed that Mr. Balfour's division was the "Port Arthur" of conservatism, and he asked everybody to follow the example of the gallant Japanese and help capture it for Liberalism. Any other man might have surpassed Horridge as an orator, but that Port Arthur stroke must be allowed to have been original and effective.

ENGLAND'S LIBERAL PENSIONS.

The earl of Halsbury, who on the change of ministry resigned the chancellorship of England, retires at the advanced age of 80 years on a liberal pension of $25,000 and Baron Ashbourne, the chancellor of Ireland at the comparatively youthful age of 68 on a pension of $[illegible]. During sixteen years of office Lord Halsbury has received for official salary a sum nearly equal to $1,000,000, exclusive of the comfortable pension to the end of his days.

VEGETARIAN SENATOR.

Although Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin, is no stranger in Washington, having served three terms in the house of representatives, his physical appearance continues to attract attention. The senator is a short, round man, with a great head. His body is long, but his legs are short. When he is sitting down he looks to be nearly six feet tall, but when he stands he is not much more than five feet six. He is a student of Shakespeare and the only vegetarian in the senate.

WANT BIRDS BACK AGAIN.

German farmers are trying to induce the smaller birds to return to their old haunts about the fields, and for this purpose are setting out boxes and other artificial devices to serve the birds for homes. The farmers need the birds to destroy the insects, but the birds are disappearing not only because of their direct slaughter, but also because the old trees, in the decayed hollows of which they built their nests the old copses which they haunted, and both of which were prolific in insects, together with the stagnant pools which yielded them food in abundance, are all disappearing before the closer cultivation of the present time.

GOLD ALL ONE COLOR.

The general idea of the color of gold is that it varies according to the locality in which it is found. This is now said by experts to be incorrect. Pure gold is of one unvarying, unchanging color. Few people, however, see such gold. All the gold of commerce used either as money or for jewelry has alloy in it. Mexican gold, for instance, is redder than that of California. This red tinge is caused by the presence of copper, and the paler tinge by silver, and in the mints of different countries the amount and kinds of alloy used differ sufficiently to give different tints to the money.

BIG CONNECTICUT SENATORS.

The new Connecticut senators are much better fixed financially than their predecessors, General Hawley and Mr. Platt. Senator Brandegee has been spending $60,000 on two houses on K street in Washington, which he proposes to throw into one, to make his Washington home. Senator Brandegee's new establishment is in a section of fine old houses, and Secretaries Moody and Root, Senators Hale, General Draper and Representative Hitt live near by.

PATTERSON'S PANEGYRIC.

GOODNESS GRACIOUS sakes alive! What has come over the spirit of Senator Patterson's dreams? Only a few days ago his organ in Denver was cartooning the President and printing the stuff sent out by Mr. Hearst's saffron news bureau in New York telling of the "usurpations" of the Chief Executive. Now the able and patriotic editor of that sheet is telling his colleagues in the Senate that even if the Democratic party had elected its Presidential candidate in 1904 "I doubt whether we would find him striving so earnestly, so seriously, and as fearlessly in sustaining the rights of all the people against those who unite to oppress the masses as is the present Chief Executive." Washington and the East, which know Patterson only slightly, may accept this statement with perfect equanimity, but out here in Colorado it will make the natives gasp with astonishment.

The editor-statesman-great criminal lawyer said a good deal more. He "confessed in a very friendly feeling towards the President, due to the record he had made as a statesman and citizen and as the first magistrate of the Republic." He commended Mr. Roosevelt for initiating the merger suits, indorsed his position on rate regulation, and, wonder of wonders!—didn't believe that the President had usurped any prerogative of the Senate in carrying into effect the present arrangement with Santo Domingo. Think of a Senator and a Senator who is addicted to the rampant defense-of-the-Constitution habit at that, admitting that Theodore Roosevelt is not attempting to be the whole Government himself! This statement alone is enough to forever disgrace Mr. Patterson in the eyes of his colleagues.

Of course the only thing for people to do—that is, people out here in Colorado, who in vulgar parlance, are "onto" Mr. Patterson's "curves," is to try to find the reason. The great statesman has been a Democrat, then a Populist, then a Democrat again, but it is unthinkable that he is now getting ready to become a Republican, even though the legislature which is to choose his successor next winter is pretty certain to be of that political faith. Inspired by the example by his friend Teller, he might change his politics to suit the exigencies of the occasion, but there are several reasons why Senator Patterson does not contemplate this step. The principal one is that it wouldn't do him any good, and it isn't necessary to name the others. People unacquainted with his political record might be deluded into thinking his praise of the President sincere, but that hypothesis likewise is impossible. If Mr. Patterson ever did a sincere thing in his life he himself hasn't found it out. Depend upon it, gentle reader, there is an Ethiopian in the woodpile, somewhere. Just keep your eye on Tricky Tom and it will appear in time.

ANTI-CIGARETTE LAWS.

BY A VOTE OF 78 to 33 the lower branch of the Ohio legislature yesterday passed a law prohibiting the manufacture, purchase or sale of cigarettes. An amendment designed to exclude persons more than twenty-one years of age from the provisions of the act was defeated by almost the same vote. It is said that a majority of the members of the upper house favor the measure, and it is strongly indorsed by Governor Pattison, so it will probably become a law.

It will be observed that this measure is not so stringent as the anti-cigarette laws passed within the last year by the legislatures of Indiana, Nebraska and one or two other states which prohibit the use of the "coffin nails." In its original form the Ohio bill made the smoking of cigarettes a criminal offense, but this clause was stricken out.

Simultaneously with the first successful skirmish of the Ohio legislature with the cigarette comes the comment of a distinguished Baltimore physician on the unsuccessful effort to enact a similar law in Maryland. Dr. Llewellyn Barker, successor to Dr. Osler at Johns Hopkins University, declares that cigarette-smoking is the least injurious way to use tobacco. "Some of our greatest men are inveterate smokers," says Dr. Barker, "and their first lesson was in the art of smoking the much-despised cigarette." This last remark is unfortunate. It is not a good thing to encourage youngsters to smoke by telling them of the example of General Grant, or President McKinley, or other distinguished users of the weed, for they will learn it soon enough anyway and they are liable to get the mistaken impression that these men were great at least partly because they were inveterate smokers. Worst of all is the nonsense about them taking their "first lessons in the art of smoking the much-despised cigarette." Every boy in the land ought to be told, and told in a way he will not forget, that he cannot use cigarettes habitually without positive harm to his mental and physical self. He ought to be told, too, that he cannot use them ever so little without the risk of almost certainly becoming a confirmed cigarettist. And when he becomes a confirmed cigarettist his efficiency in any line of endeavor is reduced at least 50 per cent. This makes it a matter of business, as well as of health and morals, and no young man can afford to cut down his earning capacity.

So far as we are aware there is no difference of opinion anywhere as to the harmful effects of cigarette-smoking by boys. Whether or not their use by adults is more injurious than the use of tobacco in any other form is an open question with expert medical opinion supporting both sides. There is room for a good deal of qualification in discussing this question. Some men are more seriously affected by two cigars a day than others are by fifteen, but in the long run the individual who consumes fifteen is pretty certain to be affected. There are men who smoke twenty, thirty or even forty of them a day, and boast that it "doesn't hurt them a bit," but if they pass ordinary common sense they know perfectly well that they are simply committing slow suicide.

Legislation directed against the use of cigarettes by the young is to be heartily commended, even when it takes the radical form of imposing a severe penalty on the smoker. But when a legislature attempts to penalize the smoking of cigarettes by adults, as the legislatures of Indiana and Nebraska have done, and as the author of the Ohio anti-cigarette bill attempted to do, it is inaugurating a dangerous tendency. Everybody will admit that liquor is responsible for a thousand times more misery than all forms of tobacco combined, but we have never heard of any law-making body attempting to make it a penal offense for a man to take a drink of whisky. Efforts to regulate the traffic in liquor are confined to its manufacture and sale, and have nothing to do with its use. It seems to be generally admitted that a man has a perfect right to drink all the liquor he can buy, and the same rule ought to apply to tobacco in every form. It would be a good thing if every state had a stringent anti-cigarette law, but even the people who most detest the odoriferous little rolls of paper will have scant sympathy with the cranks who are trying to send smokers to jail.

THE MAYOR'S RIGHT TO VOTE.

JUDGE CUNNINGHAM'S decision yesterday in the case concerning the right of the Mayor to vote as a member of the City Council is gratifying for two reasons. First, because it settles an important question. Occasions may arise in which the deciding vote in the Council determines the course of the city in matters of the utmost consequence to the people. Again, the decision, being against the contention made by Alderman Holden, administers a richly deserved rebuke to that official who has long needed a gentle reminder that he is not quite omniscient.

An appeal to the courts was had in this case as the outcome of a difficulty which arose in the Council several months ago over the granting of certain liquor licenses. The vote stood four to four, and when Mayor Hall attempted to cast the deciding vote Alderman Holden, as President of the Council, refused to allow him to do so. The Council asked City Attorney Robinson for a legal opinion, and was told that in case of a tie the Mayor had a right to vote on all matters except the passage of ordinances and the expenditure of money. But Mr. Holden, as usual, regarded his own opinion as weightier than that of the City Attorney or anybody else, and a few weeks later the incident was repeated when the Mayor again attempted to vote.

Most people in Colorado Springs long ago decided that the Council made a grave mistake when it elected Alderman Holden to be its presiding officer. Mr. Holden doesn't think so, but that is merely one of his delusions—and one of the least serious. About the first thing he did after his exaltation to the dizzy heights where stands the President's chair was to plunder into a senseless wrangle with the Street Commissioner over the appointment of a man to fill a seventy-five-dollar job in the Street Department. The thing dragged along interminably, occupying the Council's time when it should have been transacting more important business, and interfering with the work of the Department. A little while later Mr. Holden's bumptiousness again broke out in the incident which has just been settled in court. Such people usually get squelched, soon or late, but there is little hope of permanent relief in this case, for alas! some people don't know enough to stay squelched when it is the only graceful thing to do.

The advocates of hazing say that it encourages the manly virtues and makes better fighters of the midshipmen. But what about Dewey, and Sampson, and Schley, and the naval commanders of the Civil War? All of them were pretty good fighters, but none of them was trained in the school of hazing.

If one gas inspector can find 273,000 gas meters that are 7 per cent too fast in three weeks, how long will it be before the gas company is complaining of persecution?—Chicago Record-Herald.

If that gas inspector knows anything about electric meters, there are a good many people in this town who would like to get his name and address.

A dispatch from Washington says of Senator Depew that "his face is rosy, and he walks with his old springy step." The New York legislators who administered the thick coat of whitewash will be glad to know that their remedy was so efficacious.

Brown University is to erect a new library as a memorial to the late John Hay, its most distinguished alumnus. This is a case where the university honors itself even more than the man it seeks to honor.

Representative Grosvenor says he is greatly interested in "Nick and Alice." So are a good many other people, and doubtless "Nick and Alice" would appreciate it if they would transfer their interest elsewhere.

The men of Chicago look anxious and careworn.—Boston Budget.

Why shouldn't they? They live there.—Life.

Not at taxpaying time.—New York Press.

But they do at strike time, which is most of the time.

The bill to pension ex-Presidents at $25,000 a year is clearly a measure to waste the public funds. Why should the Government attempt to do what the magazine publishers are already doing?

It is noted that the cranks who try to break into the White House are unusually active this year. Since Mr. Bryan set the fashion the whole tribe gravitate in that direction.

Colonel Mann's greatest mistake was in not living in the good old days of Captain Kidd and the other pirates.

LIEUT. PIKE'S DIARY

For One Hundred Years Ago Today

Saturday, 1st February, 1806. Left our camp pretty early, passed a continued train of prairie, and [illegible] late at half part two o'clock.

I will not attempt to describe my feelings on the accomplishment of my voyage, for this is the main source of the Mississippi. The Lake Winipic branch is navigable from there to Red Cedar lake, for the distance of five leagues, which is the extremity of the navigation.

I crossed the lake twelve miles to the establishment of the North-West Company, where we arrived about three o'clock. We found all the gates locked, but upon knocking were admitted, and received with marked attention and hospitality by Mr. Hugh McGillis, who provided for us a good dish of coffee, butter and cheese for suppe.

In ascending the Mississippi from Sandy lake you first meet with Swan river on the east, which bears nearly due east, and is navigable for bark canoes ninety miles to Swan lake; you then meet with the Meadow river which falls in on the east and bears nearly east by north, and is navigable for Indian canoes 100 miles; you next, in ascending, meet with a very strong ripple, and an expansion of the river where it forms a small lake. This is three miles below the falls of Packagama, and from which the noise of the shoot may be heard. The course of of the river at the falls was N. 50 degrees W. and just below the river is a quarter of a mile in width, just above the shoot not more than twenty yards. The water thus collected runs down a flat rock which has an elevation of about thirty degrees. Immediately above the fall is a small island of about fifty yards in circumference, covered with sap-pine. The portage, which is on the east, (or north) side, is no more than two hundred yards, and by no means difficult. These falls, in point of consideration as an impediment to the navigation, stand next to the Falls of St. Anthony, from the source of the river to the Gulph of Mexico. The banks of the Mississippi to the Meadow river have generally been lined by pine, pinnet, hemlock, sap-pine, or the aspen pine. From thence it winds through high grass meadows (or savannas) with the pine swamps at a distance, appearing to cast a deeper gloom on the borders. From the falls, in ascending, you pass the Lake Packagama on the west, celebrated for its great production of wild rice, and next meet with the Deer river on the east. The extent of its navigation is unknown. You next meet with the River la Crosse on the eastern side which bears nearly north and has only a portage of one mile to pass from it into the Lake Winipic branch of the Mississippi. We next came to what the people of that quarter call the forks of the Mississippi: the right branch of which bears northwest, and runs eight leagues to Lake Winipic, which is of an oval form about thirty-six miles in circumference. From Lake Winipic the river continues five leagues to upper Red Cedar lake, which may be termed the upper source of the Mississippi. The Leech lake branch bears from the forks south-west, and runs through a chain of meadows. You pass Muddy lake which is scarcely anything more than an extensive marsh of fifteen miles circumference; the river bears through it nearly north, after which it again turns to the west. In many places this branch is not more than ten or fifteen yards in width, although fifteen or twenty feet deep; from this to Leech lake the communication is direct, and without any impediment. This is rather considered the main source, although the Winipic branch is navigable the greatest distance. To this place the whole face of the country has the appearance of an impenetrable morass, or boundless savannah; but on the borders of the lake are some oak, and large groves of sugar-maple, from which the traders make sufficient sugar for their consumption the whole year. Leech lake communicates with the River de Corbeau by seven portages, and the River des Feuilles also with the Red river by the Otter-tail lake on one side, and by Red Cedar lake, and other small lakes to Red lake on the other. Out of these small lakes and ridges rise the upper waters of the St. Lawrence, the Mississippi and *Red river, the latter of which discharges itself into the ocean by Lake Winipic and Hudson's bay. All these waters have their upper sources within one hundred miles of each other, which, I think, plainly proves this to be the most elevated part of the north west continent of America. But we must cross what are commonly termed the Rocky mountains, or a spur of cordeliers, previous to our finding the waters whose currents run westward, and pay tribute to the western ocean.

In this quarter we find moose, a very few deer and bears, but a vast variety of fur animals of all descriptions.

THE PROBLEM OF THE UNFIT.

England is following out example in respect of narrowing her gates to the immigrant. She has deported several undesirable strangers who have sought to take residence in London—for in England, as here, the weak, the sickly, the criminal and the pauperized refuse to budge from the cities—and we may be sure that the new law, which forbids the importation of these unpleasant persons, will be enforced with a promptness and impartiality such as we, under a vote-currying government, know nothing about.—Brooklyn Eagle.

MANIA FOR FEDERAL CONTROL.

The old notion that the least governed people is the best governed people is placed out, and the present day fad is that if the functions of administration are sufficiently expanded everybody will be rich, healthy, and contented. The microbe of centralized authority and of federal control has become a god before which many people are ready to bow down and worship. The theory that the volume of popular welfare depends on the volume of government is just now being overworked and is allowed no holidays. Many of the measures which have been thrust into congress and which provide for federal control over this, that, and the other branch of human endeavor are raw, crude, and misfit—and the only redeeming feature of many of them is that they cannot pass. No extension of the powers of the national government should be made except along conservative lines, be adopted until the need and wisdom of it are made manifest in the flesh.—Hartford Times.

KENTUCKY WATER DANGEROUS.

THE EARLY BIRD.

One of the rural schools in Kansas has a pretty girl as its teacher, but she was much troubled at first because many of her pupils were late every morning. At last she made the announcement that she would kiss the first pupil to arrive at the schoolhouse the next morning. At sunrise the three largest boys of her class were sitting on the doorstep of the schoolhouse, and by 8 o'clock every boy in the school and four of the directors were waiting for her to arrive.—New York Tribune.

London's Unemployed

England's Gravest Problem Today

Public Patience Tried by Great Demonstrations — Red Flag Waved and Royalty Hooted in the Metropolis — Yet Little Note Was Taken Thereof.

A NEW problem has arisen in England, a problem far graver than any question of foreign affairs, more momentous than any disputed imperial policy. It is the problem of the poor of London.

These people are not to be numbered by the tens of thousands or by the hundreds of thousands, but by the millions. They form an enormous proportion of the inhabitants of the greatest city of the world. The stronger sort few of them, comparatively, live over a splendid metropolis, magnificent public buildings, brilliantly lighted streets, parks and squares and avenues. He sees gorgeous theaters, luxurious clubs, cathedrals, and museums, well-stocked stores and busy offices. An occasional beggar in the Strand or Piccadilly, an emaciated crossing sweeper, or a pitiful flower girl may excite momentary pity and evoke the virtuous glow that comes from charity bestowed, but that is all.

The shame of London is hidden. It is in the quarters never visited by the well-to-do that it has its habitation. The skeleton has existed in the closet for scores, hundreds, of years, but the door has been locked, the horror veiled. It is veiled no longer.

Once, a dozen years ago, the poor of London broke their bounds. They marched, thousands strong, to the West End, and they swept the police away like chaff before the wind. Shop after shop was looted. Plate glass windows were smashed and gold and jewels seized. A whole thoroughfare was wrecked before law and order obtained the upper hand. The outbreak was soon over, but in a couple of hours the forces which had hitherto been successfully suppressed had given London a shock from which it took a long time to recover.

Living in a Fool's Paradise.

But at length it succeeded in stifling its fears. The British public has read of outbreaks in other countries, of riots in Russia, of Socialism's strides in Germany, of revolts on the part of famine-stricken peasants in Italy and Spain. It has read of all these things in its sonorous, what Pecksniffian, morning newspapers, and has thanked God that England is not as other countries are. It has remembered the West End riot, but has regarded it as a warning, not of the power of the Submerged, but of the necessity of possessing an efficient police force. All the blame for the uprising of a dozen years ago was placed by the British public on the police. The chief result of it was, not legislation to decrease the misery in the East End, not earnest inquiry as to what was wrong in the British economic system, but the resignation of a quite harmless, conscientious and hard-working police commissioner.

And now the British public is frightened again, terribly frightened. The police force of London is more efficient than ever before; the trade of England is more prosperous—according to the official returns—than for many years; the country is at peace, and its statesmen have so arranged things that it is stronger internationally that at any time in a dozen lustrums. And the red flag is being seen in the streets of the capital; the "Marseillaise" is being sung there for the first time in its history.

The spectre has grown so big that it can no longer be concealed. Thoughtful people have been warning the others of its existence for scores of years. Poets have written of the tragedies of the bridges and of the East End, philosophers have discussed the causes of the terrible poverty of Whitechapel, sociologists have suggested remedies, philanthropists have given their lives and their money, the Kyrle society has provided the poor with flowers and blue china. The public, as a whole, has remained indifferent. It has given its guineas in order to aid numberless funds (and to get a line of acknowledgement in the papers), but it has been serenely oblivious of the growth of the evil, an evil that now threatens to become a disaster.

A New and Dangerous Race.

There has been evolved in London a race distinct, unlike any other race in the British Islands, with strongly marked characteristics, with alien features and habits. It is a race stunted in size, sallow-complexioned, dark-haired. Its moral sense is blunted, its mentality low. It has even evolved a speech of its own, and a denizen of the East End now uses a dialect as distinct as an inhabitant of the Highlands of Yorkshire.

These are the people who smashed the jewelers' windows a dozen years ago. Perhaps, were they only to be reckoned with, the British public would be justified in its complacent optimism, for the East Ender is a pitiful creature, without initiative and without even the courage of the Paris Apache or the Russian Uligan. The outbreak in the West End was simply the seizing of an opportunity provided by a great mass meeting, a brief flaring up of mob violence, which, as soon as the police could collect in sufficient numbers, was easily suppressed.

But masses, even of the most cowardly units, are always formidable, and with leaders and a leavening of courageous men, an army of poor-spirited human beings can become terrible. This is the condition that confronts the citizens of London. The East Enders, the submerged tenth, the people who constitute the chronic unemployed, have found leaders and they have found allies. The leaders are the Anarchists and Socialists; the allies are the thousands of workmen who are not chronically unemployed, but who have for months been unable to find work.

While many of the great manufacturing cities of England are now as prosperous as they have ever been, the conditions in other cities and in the capital were hardly ever, perhaps never, worse, and unless all signs fail, there will be before the winter is over, actual famine for a large proportion of the inhabitants of the metropolis. All sorts of theories are advanced to account for this state of things. Mr. Chamberlain says it is free trade. The Anti-Imperialists say it is the colonies. Some of the politicians declare it is the immigration of destitute Jews. The people who are suffering don't know and don't care particularly what has caused their misery. They only know they can find no one to employ them, and that in consequence they and their families have to go without food or apply to the boards of guardians for relief.

"Curse Their Charity," Cried People.

They have been suffering in silence for a long time. A few weeks ago they began to murmur collectively. The murmurings have been becoming louder week by week. The outcry of the people is becoming concerted, demonstrations and masses are becoming more defiant. Four days ago King Edward's eldest daughter was hooted in the streets of London as she was opening the funds provided by the king and queen to shelter the unemployed.

"Curse their charity!" cried the people.

It is a long time since a member of the royal family has been insulted in England, and this incident must be causing much searching of heart among those who have regarded the present had time of London's poor as similar to previous bad times, when a Mansion House fund and a Royal commission seemed to provide all the alleviation necessary.

The inevitable Royal commission has, of course, already been appointed. If Westminster Abbey and Windsor castle were to be blown up, a number of eminent noblemen and gentlemen would be instructed to meet once a week, examine witnesses, and prepare a report. But it would seem as though the present Royal commission would act to work with even less hope than usual. It is realized that something else is needed than an "inquiry into the workings of the poor law," which is the object for which the commission is appointed. It is not the paupers who are crying for help now, or at least it is not they whose cries are so persistent. It is the decent workingmen, the men who have learned trades, to whom the word home means something, who apply for charity only as the last resource—it is those who are now suffering so terribly.

Terrible Conditions Prevail.

How terribly may be judged from a statement made a few days ago to a newspaper man by one of the missionaries attached to the London police courts. These missionaries know the signs of hard times in countless ways—the pawning of the decent clothes, or the tools, the plea for credit at the shop, the tale of the arrears of rent growing alarmingly week by week, the reports of school attendance officers, and, perhaps, at length the hunger-driven theft of a bit of food that brings the erstwhile honest and respectable man into court.

Mr. Massey is the missionary at the Worship street police court. In the statement referred to he said that in his list of recent applicants for assistance were distressing cases, in very many instances from men possessed of considerable technical skill.

"Here, for example," he said, "is one—the man is a French polisher, at which, when there is work to be had, the pay is good, but he has no had a job since last Christmas. He has nine children, and only one of them, the eldest girl, who is beginning as a machinist, is able yet to earn anything. He came to us to help him from the Montagu Williams fund to get some boots, without which the little ones could not have gone to school.

"I have here another polisher, who has four children, and that poor fellow has not been able to get work for eight months, while he is seven weeks in arrears with his rent."

Another fact Mr. Massey proceeded to point out was the scarcity of work for women. Under ordinary conditions, if the man's earnings during the winter were uncertain or precarious, the wife could often pay the rent and earn enough to buy at least plain fare, by going out as a charwoman. Even those of her own sphere would be able on one day a week to call her services for a couple of hours or so, and if only 6d. and a tea were given, it was at least of some assistance.

The small shopkeepers, too, were glad to avail themselves of such help, and if the day was long and arduous, with much scrubbing and rough work, there was frequently a knuckle of bacon, an odd bit of cheese or some broken meat to go home with.

Where Will It All End?

But now, said the missionary, the humble trader was having as hard a time as those who would be his customers. His wife could afford no outside aid and must do the best she could for herself. As an illustration of the falling off of such work, Mr. Massey mentioned a laborer, who for over five months had been unable to obtain any regular work. The wife, a strong, hard-working woman, is only sure now of one day a week at the parish laundry.

widow, with a young family to support, who had not had a full day's work as a charwoman for thirteen weeks.

"Here," said Mr. Massey, "is a boot finisher, who would not, perhaps, be equal to the very highest class work of his trade, but is none the less an industrious, careful man, and for four months he has been unable to find a job, while his five children are well-nigh starving. Here is a builder's laborer, with four little ones to maintain, one of whom, as a result of misery and privation, is now in a hospital. Another laborer has had one day's work in six months; and there is a painter who in nine weeks has earned 4s. Still another laborer, with six children, has been out of work for ten weeks."

And so the dreary record went on. The man who cited these cases only saw an infinitesimally small fraction of the total misery in London, and yet what he told was simply as an example of the stories he was hearing every hour.

Queen Alexandra, with a generous subscription, has started a fund for the relief of the unemployed, and there is no doubt that money will pour in. The average Briton is by no means callous; only he does not see things unless they are very plain. Now that in various ways the appalling situation in the East End has been brought to his notice, he will doubtless do what he can.

But what can be done? At best, as everyone admits, charity is the merest palliative, and sometimes actually harmful. Of a real remedy there appears no sign.

And in the meanwhile the murmuring of the people grows.—New York Times.

HUGO'S DAUGHTER.

Paul Meurice, who was buried the other day at Paris, was Victor Hugo's executor and the guardian of his only surviving daughter, Adele Hugo. She is an old lady of the weak in her mind, who lives in a small country house not far from Paris under the care of two nurses. She has no notion of her wealth—thanks to the royalties upon her father's works she is immensely wealthy—and works hard writing plays which she imagines are produced in Paris and the provinces. Now and again she is brought to Paris and taken to a matinee at one of the theaters. There she sits in a corner of the stage box, believing that the play she is watching is one of her own and bowing when the audience applands.

Senator Perkins, of California, is a whaler; Congressman Gardner, of Michigan, is a clergyman; Delegate Jonah Kuhio Kalanianaole, of Hawaii, is a prince; Congressman Hunt, of Missouri, is a stonecutter; Congressman Minor of Wisconsin is a licensed master of steam vessels, and Congressman Robertson, of Louisiana, is a college professor.

TO BE MOLD PASSES FOR LIFE.

Outside the favored circle of railroad officers, employes and dependent members of their immediate families, who are not barred by law from having passes, just two persons will ride free on the Pennsylvania railroad after this year.

One is Miss Anne Thompson, who resides at Marion and is the daughter of Frank Thomson, formerly the president of the Pennsylvania railroad.

The other is Mrs. George B. Roberts, who resides at Bala and is the widow of George B. Roberts, another former president of the company.

Holding little silver discs, the same kind as the company gives to its directors instead of pasteboard passes, these two women are privileged, during the balance of their natural lives, to travel free on any and all trains operated anywhere on the entire Pennsylvania railroad system of nearly 10,000 miles of line.

ROUGH RIDERS AND INDIANS TO ATTEND PIKE CENTENNIAL

Plans for National Celebration Next September in This City Are Being Rapidly Made---President Roosevelt Will Probably Attend.

President Roosevelt and his famous band of Rough Riders will probably attend the Pike's Peak Centennial celebration.

The president has not yet formally accepted the invitation of the Centennial executive committee, but there is little doubt that he will be here for one or two days at least.

"People are just beginning to realize the magnitude and importance of the event," said Henry Russell Wray last evening. "It will mean the bringing to Colorado Springs of thousands of people who otherwise would not be here and the spending of a big pile of money; it will mean that Colorado Springs will be advertised in every daily paper in the United States and scores of magazines. The celebration means much to business men here, and they cannot afford to let an opportunity for boosting it go by. It will be national in its scope and local people will reap all the benefits."

Bands of Indians, representing the tribes which inhabited the Pike's Peak region during the time of Pike's explorations, will be sent from their reservations to attend the celebration.

The Mountain and Plain carnival which Denver has arranged will move towards Pike's Peak a week after the Centennial closes, and part of its program may be carried out here while the celebration is in progress.

A scheme for thoroughly advertising the coming event has already been evolved by the executive committee and the El Paso County Hotel and Restaurant Keepers association. All the hotel men want the adoption of a uniform design and legend to be printed on their stationery and advertising literature which will be sent broadcast over the country. "Pike's Peak or Bust, 1806-1906. Pike's Peak Centennial Celebration, Colorado Springs, September 4-15, 1906" is the inscription selected, and business men all over the city will be asked to use it on their letter heads, bills and envelopes.

D. C. MacWatters of the Short Line, and George Taylor, general passenger agent of the Southern railway, are greatly interested in the coming event and will do everything in their power to help it along. The Short Line has ordered eighteen new coaches in preparation for the rush of people and other roads and scenic resorts are preparing to care for one of the biggest and best crowds in the history of Colorado Springs.

Experience Is Sometimes a Dear Teacher.

So many parents of young children do not realize the danger from croup until they have had the experience of one severe case in their own home. To be awakened in the middle of the night by the peculiar rough cough and find their little one suffering from a fully developed attack of the croup and nothing in the house with which to relieve it is a lesson never to be forgotten. A good remedy at hand is of incalculable value in a time like this and nothing better can be obtained than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It has been thoroughly tested in hundreds of cases and not only cures croup, but when given as soon as the first symptoms appear it will prevent the attack. The fact that this remedy contains no narcotics makes it perfectly safe to give to the children. For sale by all druggists.

Ransom will be detailed to the management of this branch. Agent Oliver E. It is expected that Mr. Ransom will also prove of valuable assistance to the juvenile court and its officers in enforcing the law regarding the care of children.

UNIFORM RANK PYTHIANS QUIT

H. C. CASNER COMPANY NO. 2 VOTES TO SEND IN ITS CHARTER. OFFICERS GIVE UP COMMISSIONS.

The first step towards the disruption of the first regiment, Colorado brigade, Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, was taken last night when H. C. Casner company No. 2 of this city voted to give up its charter, and the officers to give up their commissions. These will be sent to the national headquarters of the Uniform Rank at St. Paul today. Alex Reibscheid is captain of the company.

It is understood that Pike's Peak company No. 10 of Colorado Springs will take similar action at its meeting next Tuesday night, and that the uniform rank companies at Pueblo and Florence will also withdraw within the next few days. This will leave only the Florence Uniform Rank band and one or two small companies in the First regiment. The Victor company, which belongs to the Second regiment, will also send in its charter and officers' commissions in a few days to Major General Stobbart at St. Paul.

When Colonel Daily of Aspen and Colonel Chambers of Denver come to Colorado Springs next Tuesday night to make their regular inspection of the local companies they will find the armory deserted. These officers are Pythian supporters.

The action taken by the H. C. Casner company last night is due to the summary discharge of Colonel H. C. Casner of Greeley from the command of the First regiment without court martial proceedings.

ASPHYXIATED BY GAS JET

AUNT OF MRS. J. F. BURNS FOUND DEAD IN ST. LOUIS. WAS SISTER OF JAMES H. PARKER.

Falling in a faint as she turned on a gas jet at her home in St. Louis, Mrs. George B. Locke was asphyxiated before help could reach her. Mrs. Locke was an aunt of Mrs. James F. Burns of this city, who before her marriage was Miss Gertrude Parker of St. Louis.

The tragic death of Mrs. Locke was not discovered until early in the evening, when she was found unconscious by her daughter, Miss Fannie Locke, and a neighbor, Mrs. John Edwards. She died two hours later without having regained consciousness. Mrs. Locke was prostrated from the sudden shock and her condition last night was critical. To those who are attending her she said she would never enter the house again.

Mrs. Locke was found with her head resting against a chair in the kitchen, gas poured from an open jet in the range and it is supposed the woman suffered an attack of heart failure as she was about to apply a match. The coroner has decided upon an inquest.

Mrs. Locke was a sister of James H. Parker, father-in-law of James F. Burns. Mr. Parker has been living in the Burns residence, 1315 Wood avenue. A few days ago Mr. and Mrs. Burns, Mr. and Mrs. Parker, Mrs. Tootle and Miss Tootle left for California in a private car. The trip was taken for the benefit of Mr. Parker's health.

GEORGE BERNARD GETS PREMIUMS IN DENVER

At the second day's exhibit of the Western Live Stock show, held at the stock yards in Denver, George Bernard, a wealthy mining man and breeder of Galloway cattle, divided honors with George W. Lindsey of Red Cloud, Neb., for the Galloway exhibit. Mr. Bernard was awarded first and second prize in class 33, for a yearling bull, and first prize in class 38, for a heifer calf. Mr. Bernard was also awarded five second prizes and one third prize. Mr. Lindsey, who has the reputation of being the most extensive breeder of Galloway cattle in the west, carried off eight firsts, two seconds and two third prizes.

CHANCE TO GET COIN FROM DENVER MINT

Colorado Springs people can get some of the first money coined at the Denver mint by calling at the Colorado Midland office on North Tejon street Friday morning. Coinage begins at the new money-maker this morning and the Midland road, in anticipation of the demand which will arise for some of the coins milled from the first bars of Colorado gold and silver, has arranged with the mint authorities for $100 of the new money. The amount will include all the denominations from silver dollars down, and the money will be given out in change to all those who call at the office.

THIEF WILL CONFER A FAVOR BY CALLING AT POLICE STATION

Miss Dicie Dooley, a waitress at the Alta Vista hotel, was robbed of her pocketbook on Kiowa street, just east of Cascade avenue, shortly before 8 o'clock Tuesday night, but the thief who snatched the pocketbook has not yet been captured and the police do not seem to care whether he is or not.

Miss Dooley chased the thief for nearly half a block, until he disappeared into the alley east of Cascade avenue and ran south toward the rear of the Opera house. Miss Dooley was accompanied by Miss Rose Miller, and fearing to follow the thief down the alley, they walked to Tejon street and then south toward Pike's Peak avenue. They met a uniformed officer and reported the theft to him. The officer at once reported the robbery to the police headquarters from the patrol box at the Exchange bank. No interest was taken at headquarters, apparently, for at 9 o'clock City Detective Round was still standing outside the Opera house and said he had not heard of the theft. Detective Shultz was at the Elks lodge and had not been notified, and at 11 o'clock Police Captain Stewart was apparently in ignorance of the robbery. If the thief will call at the police station he will doubtless confer a favor on the department.

WEBER STREET HOME IS SOLD FOR $10,000

A real estate transaction of interest to realty dealers was closed yesterday in the sale of the property at 501 North Weber street. The property was purchased for approximately $10,000 by Mrs. Elvira McCauley, who has made her home there for a number of years. The house is one of the large residences in Colorado Springs and contains fourteen rooms. Senator James W. McCreary of Greeley was the former owner of the property.

EXTRAORDINARY GRAB SALE

The grab sale yesterday proved so successful in the way of pleasing people that I have decided to have a other grab sale next Wednesday, February 7. This repetition is on account of the expressions of disappointment by many people who were unable to attend the sale yesterday. Next Wednesday two lots of articles will be tied up, one for the morning and the other for the afternoon sale. By this means I hope to give all a fair chance. I wish it distinctly understood that this sale is held solely for the purpose of making THE EMPORIUM acquainted with the people of Colorado Springs. The exchange feature of yesterday's sale will be observed next Wednesday.

JUDGE CUNNINGHAM TO LECTURE TONIGHT

Judge L. W. Cunningham will lecture tonight on New Zealand at the First Christian church. Judge Cunningham gave the same lecture at Fountain, Colo., last week, and the Fountain Herald said of the address:

"It is needless to say that many of us have heard of the model government of New Zealand, and thought of it as similar to that of our own country, but, of course, not nearly so good. To such the judge's lecture was a startling revelation, and while it exalts our opinion of New Zealand, it in no wise lessens the esteem that every true American has for his own country and its government. New Zealand learned its lesson of free government in trying experiences. The purpose of Judge Cunningham's lecture is to educate us to accept the results in New Zealand without being driven to them. In this light we wish that the lecture might be heard and heeded by everyone."

COLORADO SPRINGS MINING STOCK EXCHANGE.

A ten-cent rise in El Paso, backed by a general advance along the line, constituted the feature of the mining market yesterday. Although Tuesday's sales in El Paso closed at 84, when an offer was made at 90 yesterday morning, it was snapped up and, after vigorous trading in small blocks of stock for some time, the closing sale reached 94. Confirmation of the ruralo strike is given as the cause for the advance.

Jennie Sample advanced steadily under lively sales until 8 7-8 was reached. Constantine, which holds 200,000 shares of Jennie Sample in the treasury, did not respond further, but clung around two cents.

Findley reached 94, and the last sale of Vindicator was at 97. Other active stocks were also higher, and the day was one of the liveliest on the exchange in some time. Total shares, 124,559; cash sales, $12,315.

ORE SHOOT EXPOSED IN THE ORO MINE

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Jan. 31.—What appears to be the edge of an ore shoot has been encountered by the Colorado Oro Mines company, of which C. T. Springer is manager, in the south end of the Oro claim of Ironclad hill. The body has a width of two feet and was reached after ten feet of drifting had been done, at a depth of 100 feet. The material is oxidized and is worth from $2 to $75 in gold to the ton, according to assays. While development of this body is proceeding, sinking will be continued. At the 150-foot point, which will be reached in the course of a few weeks, another drift will be started. The shaft on the north part has been sunk to the 100-foot point by Miller and associates, lessees. They propose to continue to 300 feet. In sinking, a vein that assayed from $18 to $20 to the ton was pierced.

DEXTER TO HAVE A NEW HOISTING PLANT

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Jan. 31.—A hoisting plant, until recently used on the Los Angeles mine of Bull hill, will be installed tomorrow at the main shaft of the Dexter mine, near by. A week hence operations will be under way again. Just before the former plant was destroyed by fire, Riley, Stewart and associates exposed a shoot at a depth of 600 feet. The body has a width of three or four feet and is of average quality.

VEIN BEING FOLLOWED IN THE TEUTONIC

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Jan. 31.—A vein three or four feet in width, in which streaks of good quality are occasionally encountered, is being followed at a depth of 350 feet in the Teutonic claim of Ironclad hill by Duncan and Cain, lessees. It is proposed to continue the shaft to the 400-foot point.

PEGGY SHIPS A CAR

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Jan. 31.—The Peggy mine of Gold hill surrendered another carload of ore today, the shipment being made by the Peggy Leasing company, and was broken from shoots two to nine feet wide on the 250 and 450-foot levels. The addition of a 100-foot lift has been completed, providing a depth of 550 feet.

TO DRILL NEW OIL WELL NEAR SURBER

A broken casing at a depth of 200 feet in the oil well being sunk on the Kennedy ranch has caused a suspension of operations at that point. The company, however, is confident that oil exists in the region and work will start this week on sinking another well about four miles from the abandoned operations and near the town of Surber. Experts are of the opinion that the new location is better than the former one, and they expect that oil in paying quantities will be found.

On the Gallina ranch, where the Colorado Springs Oil company has sunk a 1,000-foot well, boring will be continued, owing to encouraging conditions that have been encountered.

NEGROES BEING TRIED IN A JUSTICE COURT

Matt Jolies and Frank Whitsin, the two negroes who shot each other in Comer's saloon Thanksgiving night, and who have since been in St. Francis hospital, were arraigned before Justice John McCoach yesterday afternoon, each charged with shooting the other with intent to kill. Both negroes claim they were shooting in self-defense. Only three witnesses were examined during the afternoon and the court adjourned until 2 o'clock this morning. As there are a large number of witnesses, the trial will probably last all day.

A THOUSAND DOLLARS THROWN AWAY

"My wife had lung trouble for over fifteen years," writes Mr. W. W. Baker, of Plainview, Neb. "We tried a number of doctors and spent over a thousand dollars without any relief. She was very low and I lost all hope, when a friend suggested trying Foley's Honey and Tar, which I did, and thanks be to this great remedy, it saved her life. She is stronger and enjoys better health than she has ever known in ten years. We shall never be without Foley's Honey and Tar and would ask those afflicted to try it." THE SLEEPING BEAUTY AND THE BEAST

Reserved seats are now on sale for the engagement of the big spectacular production of "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast" at the Opera house on next Saturday evening.

The continued success of "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast," and the phenomenal business it is playing to in every city, only shows how strong the public takes to really first class attractions. The beauty of the scenery and costumes, their artistic refinement in arrangement and color and the novelty of the effects, employed strongly appeal to the esthetic sense of the people and are a source of rare delight and enjoyment.

The comedy element is said to be strong in the production and is well presented by a large corps of eleven comedians, surrounded by a veritable army of pretty girls.

One of the striking features of the production is the beauty of the costumes displayed during the grand spectacular scenes of the piece, and their artistic originality which is conceded never to have been equaled in similar productions of former seasons. The big aggregation of performers and the working force employed for this production number enough to make up ten ordinary sized companies, and the expense attached to running the entire outfit would need the "bank roll" of a trust magnate.

FLORENCE ROBERTS IN A NEW PLAY

"The Strength of the Weak" is the title of the new play in four acts by Alice M. Smith, which Florence Roberts will present at the Opera house on next Monday evening.

Instead of following other actresses in parts made famous, Miss Roberts enters this season upon her contract with John Cort who will provide at least one new play for his star each season for the next five years. In "The Strength of the Weak," Miss Roberts has what is said to be the best part she has ever portrayed. It is particularly well suited to her capabilities as an emotional actress while there are several other characters in the play which are important enough to command almost equal attention. "The Strength of the Weak" is a new modern play in four acts. The story concerns the struggles of a young orphan who, at the opening of the play, is about to graduate from a woman's college. She has written a book, said to be the story of her life, which is published anonymously and the disclosure of the author's name comprises one of the many interesting complications. Max Figman, the well known comedian and stage director, heads the company with Miss Roberts, and which includes such capable players as James E. Wilson, Eugene Ormonde, Lucius Henderson, Robert McWade, Gregory Rodgers, Joseph Hazleton, Florence Robinson, Adelaide Manola, Ruth Allen, Lucile Yorke, Mary Bertram and Lillian Armsby.

ANOTHER BIG AUDIENCE GREETS McIVOR-TYNDALL

The popularity of psychological subjects was again demonstrated last evening, when a very large audience thronged Majestic hall to hear Dr. Alexander J. McIvor-Tyndall's lecture on "Black Magic."

The discourse was an original view of the subject and the speaker stripped it of the mystery and superstition with which the word "magic" is generally associated. He said in part:

"In ancient time a knowledge of chemistry, metallurgy, astronomy and all that we now associate with the arts and sciences, was confined closely to the priests, who were called 'magicians' from their supposed intimacy with the invisible world of spirits, angels and gods.

"Which this knowledge, in the course of time, spread to the people the priests invented the term 'black' to distinguish what they called the knowledge gained from demons, from that gained through their own particular methods. This was done naturally, to prevent the spread of truth, as a general dissemination of the truth always weakens the power of the few who arrogate to themselves superhatural power and knowledge."

The McIvor-Tyndall lectures will close on Sunday evening, when Majestic hall will doubtless be again filled to the doors. The subject will be "The Inner Life."

CITY DEPARTMENTS SHOW BIG INCREASE

The report of Building Inspector G. M. Young for the month of January, 1906, shows the total value of new buildings for which permits were issued during the month to be $37,635, as against $17,200 for January, 1905, an increase of $20,435.

Water Commissioner R. C. Bradfield, in his report for the month of January, 1906, will show water collections of $20,200, an increase of $2,200 over the same month last year.

Building permits were granted yesterday by Inspector G. M. Young as follows: W. H. Smith, brick store and two living rooms and bath room at 1635 Colorado avenue, to cost $1,200; Carpenter estate, two skylights in store room at 18 East Kiowa street, to cost $15.

Water Superintendent J. A. Hopkins has a force of men connecting up a large new fire hydrant at Fifth street and Colorado avenue, Colorado City, with the 16-inch water main.

Harry Thomas and John Horne were found guilty of vagrancy in the police court yesterday. The former was fined $10 and costs, and the latter $25 and costs, both being committed.

The monthly report of Fire Chief F. G. Armbruster for January shows 29 alarms responded to for fires, involving property insured for $113,400, while the loss was but $654.37.

STOCKS RALLY AT THE CLOSE

MARKET DRIFTS AIMLESSLY UNTIL END OF CALL WHEN PRICES START UPWARD.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—Stocks made a moderate recovery from the depression of the market today. [illegible] enormously [illegible] the volume of [illegible] the market drifted [illegible] less way, until the [illegible] close from a fair [illegible] direction was [illegible] the first hour [illegible] inclined to [illegible] standpoint [illegible] slowly advanced [illegible] character of the [illegible] renewal of weakness [illegible] The vigorous recovery [illegible] deliveries last [illegible] warning that the decline had [illegible] greatest force for the [illegible] covered shorts, therefore [illegible] to secure stocks this morning. The extent of this demand disclosed the fact that the market had been [illegible] sold in the [illegible] and the day before. At the same time the necessary liquidation appeared to have been completed. The consequence was an upward [illegible] on widely varying quotations today. The movement was as much without news as that for several days past and clearly a readjustment of the speculative situation. The weakened condition of the large speculative holdings of stocks forced them to let go their holdings. The decline in prices has extended far enough to have some re-entry into the market by [illegible] satisfied with the extent of the reaction and with the improved technical position of the market by reason of the clearing up of weak long accounts and the extension of the short interest, whose necessities would help on a rally in prices. The quarterly statement of earnings of the United States Steel corporation was a strong helpful factor in the rally.

The net earnings for the year in excess of $35,000,000 proved even larger than the very sanguine expectations. But the profitable business of this past period has been already considered in the stock market operations in the securities of the corporation. More importance was attached to the extraordinary figures of the unfilled orders on hand of 7,605,056 tons. It is this item that gives assurance of sustained conditions in this basic industry and therefore is given great significance in the promise for future general prosperity. The liquidation effected in the stock market is foreasing the growing ease of the money market in spite of a large absorption from the market on subtreasury operations.

The strong recovery and buoyancy was led by Amalgamated Copper on rumors of a settlement of the long standing contest between Montana interests. Bonds were steady. Total sales, par value, $3,040,000. United States 2s registered advanced ½ per cent on call.

GRAIN MARKET TAKES TUMBLE

WHEAT, CORN, AND OATS DECLINE PROVISIONS HOLD COMPARATIVELY FIRM.

CHICAGO, Jan. 31—Partly because of the relatively weak tone of the Liverpool market but chiefly because of the feature of the predicted bad weather in the southwest, the grain market was weak at the opening today. The initial quotations for May wheat were off ⅛ to ¼, at 85 to 85¼, following the decline at the opening of Liverpool. The buying by some trade interests, however, were in evidence and prices gradually worked upward during the remainder of the day. The market was further weakened by advices from New York which hinted at a bearish movement on the part of the leading Chicago operators for May wheat. From the opening commission houses were active sellers, and later many of the local traders who had purchased under the bullish excitement of yesterday joined in the movement. For May the lowest point of the day was reached at 84⅞c. The market closed weak with the trading almost at the lowest point, the final quotations on May being at 84⅞.

Early in the day the corn market was decidedly firm, considering the weakness of wheat. The relative strength was due to the purchasing by several prominent bulls. Later in the day there was general selling by commission houses, and reports of weakness in foreign markets, which resulted in a considerable decline. The market closed weak with prices at the lowest point of the day. May opened unchanged to a shade lower at 44⅛@⅜, sold up to 44⅝ and declined to 44⅛, the closing price.

Weakness of wheat and corn caused heavy profit taking in oats and produced a weak market late in the day. During the first half of the session the market was firm because of fair demand by commission houses. May opened a shade lower at 30⅞, sold up to 30⅞@31 and declined to 30⅝. The close was at 30⅝@⅞.

Provisions were strong early in the day because of a five to ten cent advance in the price of live hogs, but later the market weakened on liberal selling by local longs. The close was weak, closing prices being almost at the lowest point of the day. May pork was off 7½ at $14.02. Lard was down 5@7½ at $7.55. Ribs were 2½@5 lower at $7.55@7.57.

MRS FAIRBANKS' NERVE.

Mrs. Fairbanks, wife of the vice president, declares that she does not possess nerves, and it would seem that this is no idle boast. Mrs. Fairbanks has an iron endurance, and she attributes her fortitude, mental and physical, to the fact that she never allows herself to worry over anything great or trivial. But she always secures ample rest, no matter what her engagements. During the madcoming days of the last D. A. R. congress, when several thousand women would talk at once on as many different themes, Mrs. Fairbanks would endure the confusion as long as possible, and then, giving the gavel to another officer, she would go to a nearby hotel and take a half hour's repose. She always drinks hot milk when she is going through physical or mental fatigue.
